Chilean iron ore producer CAP has called on Canadian firm Cassels Brock & Blackwell LLP and Carey in Santiago to invest up to US$80 million in the local operations of Toronto-listed miner Aclara Resources.

Stikeman Elliot LLP in Toronto and Philippi Prietocarrizosa Ferrero DU & Uría (Chile) advised Aclara.

The deal was signed on 12 March.

In the transaction, CAP agreed to make a US$29 million investment in REE Uno, a Chilean company owned by Aclara that is developing a project to mine rare earth elements – including neodymium – in the southern Chilean province of Biobío. In return for the investment, CAP will receive a 20% share in REE Uno, with the remaining stake held by Aclara.

The US$29 million will be paid in three tranches: an initial US$9.7 million at the deal's closing; a second payment of US$12.5 million in January 2025; and the remaining US$6.9 million in January 2026.

Under the agreement, CAP may invest another US$50 million in REE Uno, in return for a further 20% stake in the company. There is also a three-year option to invest an undecided amount in Aclara, in return for a 19.9% share in the Canadian parent company.

The agreement between CAP and Aclara also details the formation of a joint venture that will mine rare earth metals for the magnet industry. These elements include neodymium, cobalt, dysprosium and terbium. CAP has committed to inject US$3 million in the joint venture in exchange for a 50% interest in the company – as yet unnamed.
