

GRANDVISION VENDE ROTTER & KRAUSS COMO PARTE DE SU FUSIÓN GLOBAL CON ESSILORLUXOTTICA

Several firms see out optician deal in Chile

Lily Squires

Sullivan & Cromwell LLP in London and Paris has helped Dutch company GrandVision sell its Chilean operations, Rotter y Kraus, as part of its global merger with EssilorLuxottica, the world's largest eyewear company.

EssilorLuxottica turned to Chilean firm Carey for the deal.

Philippi Prietocarrizosa Ferrero DU & Uría (Chile) advised the buyer, Dutch company HAL Investments.

The deal, valued at US$95 million, closed on 1 July.

The transaction is part of EssilorLuxottica's US$6.5 billion acquisition of HAL Investments' interest in GrandVision, which was announced back in August 2019. The international deal will give French-Italian company EssilorLuxottica a 77% stake in the optical retail brand.

To complete the Chilean leg of EssilorLuxottica's merger with GrandVision, the Chilean competition regulator, Fiscalía Nacional Económica, required the latter to divest Rotter y Kraus.

Rotter y Kraus operates 97 stores across Chile and is the nation's leading optician.
