SPANISH RENEWABLE ENERGY COMPANY ACCIONA ENERGÍA HAS BOUGHT A 183-MEGAWATT WIND FARM

Spanish renewable energy company Acciona Energía has bought a 183-megawatt wind farm and a transmission line in southern Chile for US$32 million with help from Carey.

Vincent Manancourt

Philippi Prietocarrizosa Ferrero DU & Uría (Chile) advised the seller of the San Gabriel wind farm and the 33 kilometre-long Tolchén transmission line, Chilean developer Inversiones Bosquemar Limitada. The transaction closed on 17 May.

This is not the first time Acciona Energía has sought advice from Carey. In 2013, the Spanish company called on the firm to sell US$100 million worth of renewable non-conventional energy credits to Chilean electricity company Colbún.
