

IV Civil Law Student Congress

From today through March 16th the IV Civil Law Student Congress will be held at the University of Chile Law School, in which Ricardo Reveco, a partner at Carey and co-head of the firm's Litigation Group, will participate. Interesting Chilean and foreign presenters from the universities of Harvard, Michigan and Oxford will also be part of this seminar.

The event, which was organized by University of Chile's law students, will offer academic plenaries every day. Today the discussion will be about, "Why the theory of contracts is important: Contractual freedom and protection for the weaker party". On the second day of the conference a guest panel will discuss, "Abusive Clauses: The disappearance of consumer rights". The conference will conclude with a presentation on, "The contract as a promise: A theory of contractual obligation".

For further information and registration, please visit:
www.congresocivil.cl/inscripciones/